Brighton Extra Entry Blitz

Still looking for a spring Marathon? Brighton has the answer. The registration system for next year's Brighton Marathon closed in early summer, but due to renewed demand general entries will re-open for an exceptional 24-hour period.

It is important to be aware that potential runners must first register their interest in order to receive information on when to apply.

From Tuesday 21 October, applicants will have ten days to register their interest after which they will receive an email confirming their registration.

They will then be sent an email giving them 48hr notice of when entries will open.

The number of general entries available is strictly limited and will be awarded on a first come first served basis, so it is vital to touch base as quickly as possible at:

With its record breaking course, upbeat entertainment and vociferous crowds, Brighton is firmly established in the calendar as the UK's premier go-to Marathon.

The all-action Brighton Marathon Weekend kicks off with a flourish at the two-day Expo on Friday, continues with the Mini Mile on the Saturday and concludes in south coast style with the Brighton10km and Marathon on Sunday morning April 12 2015.
